COURT MUST PASS ON INCREASED FEE FOR POLE SURVEY

Peddlers' and Hawkers' Licenses Increased to $25 a Day or $100 a Year By Council.

Council again strengthened the barrier it has been erecting to keep peddlers, hawkers and transient merchants from Center Square and vicinity by amending an ordinance, Friday evening, boosting the license fee from $5 to $25 a day and from $15 to $100 a year for such merchants.

Under the original ordinance, peddlers, hawkers and transient merchants could be restricted from doing business within two blocks on each of the four main streets radiating from the circle, and this was left unchanged, although the ordinance committee had been instructed last month to reduce the restricted limit to one block from the square.

Peddler's License Raised

Section B of an ordinance passed June 4, 1918, was amended to read as follows:

"Offer for sale goods, wares or merchandise from any fixed or temporary stand, wagon, cart or other vehicle remaining in practically the same location longer than 15 minutes, except on market days and in market spaces or any other location on the square, streets, lanes, alleys or other public places, within said borough, except upon the payment of a license of $25 per day or $100 per year. Provided, that whenever in the opinion of the burgess it would be unsafe or prejudicial to the interests of the public to have such stands, wagons, carts and vehicles in or on the public square, or in or on any of the four main streets within two squares of the public square, he may refuse a license unless so restricted, and any person violating any terms of a restricted license shall be held to have no license at all."

Fix Bus License

Council also passed an ordinance amending section 1 of an ordinance regulating hacks, wagons, omnibuses, automobiles, motor vehicles and all other vehicles carrying passengers or freight for pay within the borough.

Under the provisions of the amendment, the license fee for buses will be $2.50 for each seated person, exclusive of the driver, but shall not exceed $30. For horse-drawn carriages, operating for hire, the license fee will be $1.

LOVER THOUGHT GIRL'S SLAYER

Finding of Body of Miss Olson Leads Authorities to Search For Sweetheart.

(By Associated Press.)

Praire du Chien, Wis., Dec. 4.—In a setting endowed with all the starkness of an Ibsen drama, authorities today sought to tear away the veil of mystery surrounding the slaying of Clara Olson, daughter of a Norse farmer.

Three pathologists were summoned to view the clay cloaked body of the 22 year old girl in an effort to determine how she came to her death. Her body was found in a shallow hillside grave overlooking the home of her missing sweetheart, Erdman Olson, who has been charged with her murder.

Meanwhile the unclaimed body of a suicide in a morgue at Chicago became a new focal point in the search for the boy who wrote in a farewell letter to his parents that "I would rather meet death than captivity."

Officers found the youth who killed himself in a hotel four weeks ago to be closely similar to Olson.

RECORD NUMBER OF DEER KILLED SO FAR THIS YEAR

One Hunter's Season Lasted Only 40 Minutes; Getting Buck While On Way To Woods.

Father And Son Each Get Deer

Father and son in the George "Jamie" Woodward family, Buchanan Valley, each bagged a buck so far this season. For Charles, the son, this year's 7-pointer was his twentieth kill in 21 years of hunting. His father brought down a fine 8-point deer, bringing his total to "so many I've not stopped to count 'em."

Reports of the numbers of deer killed in the South Mountain section so far this season leads many to believe the predictions made before the season opened that it would be a banner year for the hunters even if it is a poor year for the deer, for practically all of the camps in Adams county have at least two if not more deer already and with eight more days of hunting each should get its limit for the animals abound this year as they have never abounded before.

While Leo Bushman, county game warden, has not made known his official record of the number of deer killed it is thought that it will run considerably over 150 animals in the first three days and in addition to this a large number of does and "spike" bucks have also fallen before the onslaught of the gunners.

Had Short Season

For Frank Baker, of near Mt. Carmel, the present deer season lasted less than 40 minutes. Shortly after the season opened, Mr. Baker brought down a 6-pointer, not far from his home, had the deer home and his rifle put away in less than 40 minutes. The deer was shot in the apple orchard of Mrs. H. L. Spence.

I. L. Taylor, Carlisle street, president and executive officer of the Gettysburg National Bank, who is celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of his connection with that institution, shot a 5-point buck Friday. Mr. Taylor is secretary-treasurer of the Taylor hunting camp, which hunts in the vicinity of Pine Grove Furnace, where its lodge is located.

Two other deer were brought down by members of the Taylor camp, Ward Taylor, Gettysburg, and Paul Raffensperger, Mechanicsburg, being the other two lucky sportsmen.

Preston Bumgardner, Fairfield, shot a six-point buck Friday afternoon on the Furnace road, near Reed's bridge. The deer weighed 126 pounds.

Vernon Myers, York street, shot a 10-point buck weighing 160 pounds on the Russell farm, near Kepner's Knob, Thursday morning.

Additional kills reported were: J. S. Sourbeer, Harrisburg, who shot a 6-point buck in Buchanan Valley Friday; Ely Zinn and Charles Bechtel, both of York, members of the Conewago hunting club in Buchanan Valley, each got a buck Friday, and Clark Fetters, who resides along the Lincoln Highway, near Kane's Store, shot a 6-point buck this morning in Buchanan Valley that weighed 160 pounds.

Cashtown Club Gets Four

The Cashtown Hunting Club, second oldest in Adams county, has bagged four bucks. Walter J. Cromer, of Abbottstown, got a six-point buck; William Chamberlain, near Cashtown, a six-point; Cecil Shultz, Cashtown, a three-point, and just which one of the members actualy fired the shot that brought down the fourth, a seven-pointer, has not been definitely decided. The camp is located about half a mile southwest of the Cold Springs road.

SERVICES HELD FOR MR. GRIFFIN

Funeral services were held Friday for George G. Griffin, who died Tuesday morning at his home along the Lincoln Highway, east of here. The Rev. C. F. Catherman, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiated. Interment was at Jessop's church, near Cockeysville, Maryland.

Pallbearers were William Signor, Harry McGuigan, Vincent Redding and William Harner.

BENNY WANTS SANTA TO BRING HIM SOME TOYS AND A WATCH SO HE WON'T "WIGGLE"

Benny "talks and wiggles too much". At least that is what the nurses say. So while the old fashioned method of curing such cases was to apply a willow switch, this expedient can not be used on Benny, for he is a bedridden patient at the South Mountain sanatorium, near Mont Alto, and he has ideas of his own about curing such ailments.

Benjamin Coco is his full name, and for more than a year he has been a patient at the sanatorium, and has been very sick. So sick in fact that he has been placed in the sick ward so that he can get "extra rest," and the hours pass slowly for him. But with the approach of the Christmas season, Benny had a happy hunch. If Santa would only bring him a set of mechanical toys, PERHAPS he wouldn't wiggle so much. And then lying still for so many hour makes a feller want to know the time and to have to ask a nurse what time it is makes him talk "too much". So Benny thinks that PERHAPS if he had a wrist watch he would "be out of trouble all together."

This plea from just one of the little inmates of the sanatorium is similar in many ways to a number of others which have been received by the members of the Business Girls' Club of the Young Women's Christian Association, who have volunteered to help fill the Christmas stockings for the little sufferers at Mont Alto this year.

The committee composed of Miss Isabelle Mitchell, chairman, and Miss Etta King, Miss Lily Dougherty, Miss Schnurman, Miss Helen Reaser and Miss Kathryn Bender has these letters and they will accept contributions of money or else give one of the letters to whoever applies to have it carried out. Persons desiring to contribute toward the happiness of these little shut-ins can get them by informing Miss Mitchell at her home, 29 Center Square, or by calling her by 'phone.

Some of the little ones are more modest in their requests from Santa and asks for books, a pair of gloves, bed-room slippers, lumber jackets and games and many things which make a youngster happy. The ages of the children range from 8 and 9 years to 15 and 16 and their tastes in presents are as varied as the homes from which they come, but they all agree that it is a pretty hard thing for a 'feller to have to stay in bed, especially on Christmas", and hope that a kind Santa will give them a little bit to make them happy, and like Benny,

DEFENDANTS IN HALL-MILLS CASE GIVEN FREEDOM

All Indictments Against Mrs. Hall And Two Brothers and Henry Carpender Are Quashed.

(By Associated Press.)

Somerville, Dec. 4.—All defendants in the Hall-Mills murder case were released from custody today when Justice Parker, on motion of the attorney general's office quashed the indictment which remained against them after yesterday's acquittal of Mrs. Frances Hall and her brothers, William and Henry Stevens, for the murder of Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

The indictment quashed today were as follows:

Mrs. Hall and her two brothers and their cousin, Henry de la Bruyere Carpender, charged with the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall; Henry Carpender charged with the murder of Mrs. Mills.

The attorney general took charge of the proceedings when Special Prosecutor Simpson telephoned at 10:40 that he would not come to Somerville for the proceedings.

While the dismissal of the remaining indictments came as an anti-climax to the acquittal, the defendants were clearly elated. Mrs. Hall had entered the court room in almost a gay mood, contrasting sharply with her demeanor during the trial. An ill-concealed smile twinkled in Willie's eye, while Henry Stevens and Henry Carpender seemed to take the sudden turn in the case with a business-like composure.

Carpender and Willie Stevens had been in jail since August 12 and Henry Stevens since September 15. Mrs. Hall was arrested July 26, but was admitted to bail.

The making of motion for dismissal of the indictments and their granting by Justice Parker together with the cancellation of Mrs. Hall's bail required less than 5 minutes.

This came as an eleventh hour surprise as it had been generally expected that the indictments would not be quashed for some time.

Jersey City, Dec. 4.—"The Hall-Mills prosecution must stop," Governor Moore said today, prior to the dismissal of the indictments at Somerville.

"I ordered the revived investigation and it resulted in the case being carried into court," said Governor Moore. "A verdict of not guilty was given. That verdict must be respected. I shall not permit a prosecution to become a persecution."

SIXTH CORN SHOW HELD AT BANK AT M'SHERRYSTOWN

State Specialist and Prominent York County Grower Talk To Farmers.

One of the most enthusiastic meetings and corn shows ever held in the county by the agricultural extension association was conducted with the cooperation of the Farmers' Bank of McSherrystown, at McSherrystown, Friday. It was the sixth annual corn show.

Over thirty samples of corn were exhibited and judged by Henry Highland, corn grower of York county. Mr. Highland also gave a talk on corn improvement at the meeting after the show at which fifty farmers, including several members of the baby beeg club, were present.

J. B. R. Dickey, agronomy specialist of the Pennsylvania State College, talked on alfalfa, lime and fertilizers and particularly stressed the factors that make for successful potato growing, emphasizing several of the outstanding methods used by the members of the four hundred bushel potato club in the state.

R. E. Underwood, county farm agent, outlined the methods used in agricultural extension in developing community programs and emphasized the importance of such cooperation as given by the Farmers' Bank of McSherrystown in endeavoring to encourage the farmers to raise more and better corn.

At this meeting the drawing was made for the two purebred pigs for which the members of the baby beef club have been selling chances for several months as a means of raising a fund for prize money for the Adams county beef club shows at Harrisburg in January.

Two numbers were drawn by Mr. Dickey. Number 395 was the first drawn, and the Chester White sow pig, donated by the Brysonia Chester

TRANSFUSION OF BLOOD FAILS TO SAVE GUIDE'S LIFE

Albert Powley Succumbs Despite Efforts Made to Save Him; Boy Operated Upon.

Despite a blood transfusion and every available means at the command of medical science, Albert S. Powley, 64, Aspers Route 2, died at the Annie M. Warner Hospital Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock of the effects of a gunshot wound in the right leg Thursday afternoon.

Powley is the second man to die as the result of an accidental shooting in the South Mountains during the present deer season, Irvin M. Jacobs, 45, York Route 4, having succumbed in the Chambersburg Hospital, Thursday afternoon.

Powley, a guide for the York county hunting camp, was leading the sportsmen through the mountains in the vicinity of Pine Grove Furnace when the gun of Latimer Jacoby, York, was accidentally discharged when a twig caught the trigger.

Tranfusion Futile

The load entered the guide's leg just above the knee, severing an artery and tearing much of the flesh from the bone. The guide lost much blood before he was taken to the office of Dr. E. A. Runyon, Bendersville, who administered stimulants and gave hypodermic injections to strengthen the man's ebbing vitality.

When Powley was admitted to the hospital here, about an hour after the accident, his pulse was almost imperceptible and his respiration very slow. Physicians worked valiantly to build up the man's weakened physical condition, and a blood transfusion was decided upon as probably the only means of saving his life.

H. C. Steitz, of York, a member of the camp, veteran of the World War, who had given blood before for transfusions, was accepted and early Friday morning, a pint of the York man's blood was transferred to Powley's veins. But the wounded man failed to respond to the transfusion, although he remained conscious up to the time of his death. After giving the blood, Steitz fainted, but after being revived, returned to his home in York.

Powley is survived by his widow, whose maiden name was Miss Rhoda Warner, and an uncle, John Powley, of Carlisle. Powley was a son of the late William and Ellen Powley, and was born at Bendersville.

He was a member of Washington camp, 370, Patriotic Order Sons of America, of Bendersville, and Knights of Pythias, 277, of Mt. Holly Springs.

Funeral services Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Powley home, the Rev. O. D. Coble, pastor of the Benderseville Lutheran church, officiating. Interment at Bendersville.

Operate On Boy

Richard Blocher, 14, of Flora Dale, who was struck by Dr. Runyon's automobile, while the latter was rushing Powley to the hospital, was reported at the hospital today to be "holding his own." He suffered a depressed fracture of the skull, and late Thursday evening, an operation was performed to remove a piece of bone which was pressing against the brain. A piece of bone about the size of a silver dollar was removed from the boy's head, just above the ear.

EGGS 55 CENTS ON LOCAL MARKET

Eggs maintained the 55-cent-a-dozen figure at curb market today. The "fruit of the hen" was plentiful, and there were not enough buyers to absorb the supply. Spring chickens sold at 25 and 26 cents a pound live weight, while the dressed variety—which is a misnomer, for the fowls are really "undressed"—sold from $1.25 to $1.60 each.

Dressed squabs sold at 25 cents each. Fresh pork products were plentiful, but there was little change in prices.

Applebutter sold at 25 and 30 cents a quart, walnuts, in shells, 50 cents a peck, and shell-barks, $3 and $4 a bushel.

REVOKE LICENSE OF WOODMEN

Modern Woodmen of America With Camp Here Forbidden to do Business in State.

The license of the Modern Woodmen of America to do business in Pennsylvania was revoked Friday by State Insurance Commissioner Einar Barfod. The Modern Woodmen, a fraternal insurance organization, has been doing business in Gettysburg and Adams county for many years and has many members here.

The Woodmen's headquarters are at Rock Island, Illinois, and it has 1,141,000 members in the country.

"This license was revoked," Commissioner Barfod said, "for the reason that it showed only 55 per cent solvency, and its only defense on November 9 was that 'outside pressure to force the organization on a solvent basis would be disastrous,' and the opinion of the insurance commissioner is that it would be far more disastrous to permit the organization to continue to enroll new members, under the illusion that they were joining a strong, solvent, insurance organization, and were only joining an organization that is 45 per cent actuarially insolvent."

The man who sleeps during the play may not be a critic, but he does express his opinion.

And That's That

—by—

John Ruth

It would seem that we have bumped into a hornet's nest by discussing this chapel situation at the college. To make certain that our position is not misunderstood, as so frequently it is, we shall give a small size dissertation in order to clarify the question. We feel certain that we are not dissonantly inclined.

A college man is a paragon of inexplicable reactions. A college man's religion approaches still more the cabalistic.. Yet, a college man's religion is the most important factor, pro or con, in his life. After all, religion is little more than a reaction toward life which, accordingly, makes it possible for one's religion to be judged by whatever fervid and sincere expression of life he may show.

We reason on this premise: chapel as now conducted is practically void of any religious atmosphere. The students form an opinion of "chapel religion" from that which takes place in chapel. The chapel service is supposedly the daily devotional period of the average student. Reading long useless announcements, repeating the institutional Lord's Prayer, listening to a somewhat second hand reading of the scriptures in an adverse atmosphere and singing a hymn from force of habit are not conducive toward a wholesome and progressive religion as set up by Christ.

If chapel is to be merely announcements then let it be considered and referred to as such. On the other hand, it is to be hoped that the daily services can be turned into meaningful and deeply consecrated services that will be remembered by students in after years. It can be done if the faculty and student body will cooperate.

(To J. N. T.:—We will be more than glad to make reference to matters of interest at the high school if you will supply us with the matters of interest. Address your communications to us at The Times.)

As freshman teams go we claim that the freshman basketball team, Gettysburg College, is about as good as they come. The column certainly hopes that an A-1 schedule with leading freshman teams of outstanding colleges will be made. Undoubtedly they will come home with the bacon.

We counted the score last night for the time we watched practice and unless our eyes deceive us the freshmen scored more frequently than did the varsity.

The daily press tells us that the Chinese situation is getting serious—so serious that America is forced to send gunboats several thousand miles into the interior of China to protect American interests. That may be all right, but we wonder what America would have to say if China sent a gunboat up the Mississippi to a point opposite Herrin, Illinois, to protect some Chinese hand laundry in that vicinity? This thing of international law is most fascinating.

The receiving line was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Griest with their bridal party of twenty-five years ago. They were Mrs. Griest's sister, Mrs. R. M. Howard, of Passaic, New Jersey; Maurice Griest, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Sue Wierman, Mrs. Griest's mother, and William C. Tyson, of Guernsey. Other guests present who attended the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Griest in Shippensburg twenty-five years ago were Miss Mary Griest, of Baltimore; Mrs. Amos W. Griest, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Tyson and Z. J. Peters.

Features of the evening's entertainment were piano duets by Mrs. S. F. Snyder and Miss Letitia Griest and the reading of the account of the wedding as it appeared in a daily paper at the time it took place, by Wallace Peters. Miss Elizabeth Griest presided at the tea table, and ices and assorted cakes and candies were served the guests by Misses Kathryn and Letitia Griest and several assistants. Pink was the prevailing color in the decorations, bouquets of roses and carnations being used. Carnations were given as favors, little Miss Nancy Dill acting as flower girl.

The guests numbered about one hundred, those attending from away from here having included Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Baisch, of Harrisburg.

SIXTH CORN SHOW

White Breeders' Association, was won by Tim F. Smith, Hanover R. 5, Number 672, the second drawn, won the Poland China sow pig donated by the Poland China breeders for Kenneth Hostetter, Littlestown.

Fourteen hundred and nine chances were sold by 64 of the 69 members of the Adams County Baby Beef Club. This is the first time in club work in this state that the boys and girls have raised their own prize money for their round-up in such a manner.

"Their efforts have been in most cases untiring and have brought out in them initiative and salesmanship, and the whole project has served to advertise those who sold their chances in their community as hustling members of the Adams County Baby Beef Club," Mr. Underwood said. More than $369 was raised in this manner for the prize fund of the Adams county round-up.

"This is a $100 less than we had last year by virture of the donations from banks in the county and the state farm show but we expect that several of our members will benefit when ten of the top calves from the Adams county outfit will be shown with those from Cumberland, Lebanon and Lancaster counties for the state championships and the substantial reward which it will carry," according to the farm agent.

BANDITS GET $10,000

(By Associated Press.)

Rochester, Minn., Dec. 4.—Three or more bandits armed with rifles burst into the Olmstead county bank shortly after it opened this morning, covered the employes, scooped up $10,000 in cash and shot their way out, wounding two policemen. The men escaped in an automobile waiting nearby.

freight and other commodities, was fixed at $10 for the first ton and $5 for each ton or fraction thereof thereafter. For horse-drawn wagons, the charge for licenses shall be $5 for the first ton and $2.50 for each additional ton or fraction thereof.

Council was prepared to consider an ordinance increasing the license fee for pole inspection service within the borough, but C. C. Lawson, Philadelphia, of the legal division of the Bell Telephone Company, appeared to inform the solons that such an increase must first be approved by the Adams county court.

Court Must Approve

Mr. Lawson said an effort was made here in 1907 to increase the inspection fee from 10 cents to 50 cents, but that the court, at that time, overruled the increase. Council again desires to boost the fee to 50 cents, but Mr. Lawson and Solicitor J. Donald Swope informed council that the matter would have to go through the regular court channels. The matter was then temporarily dropped.

Council voted to pay half of the cost of $150 for land for two alleys east of Carlisle street and north of East Lincoln avenue. J. Guy Wolfe, a resident of Lincoln avenue, appeared to inform council of the price asked by Andrew Utz for the land for the alleys, and to say he would make an effort to have the property owners who would benefit by the ordaining of the two alleys bear the other half of the cost of the land.

Peter C. Stock, president, presided at the meeting, which was attended by Councilmen J. E. Snyder, N. B. Schnurman, J. Allen Dickson, C. E. Tawney, W. I. Oyler, G. W. Rex and W. A. Miller.

STOCK REPORT

(By Associated Press.)

New York, Dec. 4.—Stock prices displayed a complete reversal today, an opening outburst of strength being followed by a heavy realizing throughout the list. A sudden selling movement in Baldwin which carried that stock from 164 to 154 before the end of the first hour caused the change in speculative sentiment. The closing was irregular and rails were sluggish during the morning.

"keep them from wiggling too much."

Some of the letters from these children follow:

Children's Hospital,
South Mountain, Pa.

Dear Santa:—

I am a little black eyed, black haired boy that has been here two Christmases and know that you must have heard of me before.

For sometime I have been in the sick ward where we must take extra rest and not play with other little boys and girls. Now I am only ten years old and have been in this ward about two years. So you can imagine the penned up energy a boy of my age must have and to lie down and do nothing but try and get well is against my ideas and I am told that—"I talk and wiggle too much."

Maybe perhaps if I had a "Tinker Toy Set" and a set of trains it would keep me from wiggling so much.

Then too at times I feel that our rest hours are entirely too long, so begin asking time—if I had a watch perhaps I would not talk so much and then maybe I would be out of trouble all together.

Your peppy friend,
BENNY COCO.

Children's Hospital.

Dear Santa:—

Last Christmas I wrote my own letter, because I was here then too. But this time I have been so sick that a big girl is writing and maybe when Christmas comes I'll be able to enjoy it all.

I will be glad for whatever you send me, and I am going to tell you some things to choose from for my Christmas. But I would never expect you to send them all. Just choose from these: a bath robe, size 12; a lumber jacket, size 12, a pair of bedroom slippers, size 2; a tinker toy set, a toy truck or a game.

I am eleven years old.

Your true friend,
ROBERT WEATHERLY.

Dear Santa:—

I am a little boy in the Infirmary, and I don't get out on the playground until I am healthier. But I do the best I can.

I wish you could send me a set of trains and a tinker toy set and game. Then if you could send me any more I'd like to have a lumber jacket size 10 and a pair of gloves.

Your little friend,
THOMAS McDERMOTT.

Dear Santa:—

I have been up here for sixteen months and I am a shut-in. I can't get out to play with other boys and that makes me lonesome.

I wish you could bring me a bath robe size 14, a game, a watch and a book, and I'd be glad to have some Tom Swift Books, too.

I hope to receive these things on Christmas.

Thanking you, I remain
Your friend,
ANTHONY WASOLKA.

Dear Santa:—

I have been here over a year because I am in the infirmary trying to get real well. I can't go out to the play ground, but there are twenty other boys who are shut in like myself and we may play together because we don't have to stay in bed quite all of the time; and that helps. You were good to me last Christmas. This year I wish you would send me a set of tinker toys, a watch or a uke and a Tom Swift book, and that is all.

Your friend,
MORRIS MARGINE.

FAGS

When the cold is making ice cream of the marrow of your bones,
When you're shaking like a jelly and your feet are dead as stones;
When your clothes and boots and blankets, and your rifle and your kit
Are soaked from hell to breakfast, and the dugout where you sit
Is leaking like a basket, and upon the muddy floor
The water lies in filthy pools, six inches deep or more;
Tho' life seems cold and mis'rable and all the world is wet,
You'll always get thro' somehow—if you've got a cigarette.

When you're lying in a listening post 'way out beyond the wire,
While a blasted Hun, behind a gun, is doing rapid fire;
When the bullets whine above your head, and sputter on the ground,
When your eyes are strained for every move, your ears for every sound,
You'd bet your life a Hun patrol is prowling somewhere near;
A shiver runs along your spine that's very much like fear;
You'll stick it to the finish—but I'll make a litte bet,
You'd feel a whole lot better, if you had a cigarette.

When Fritz is starting something and his guns are on the bust;
When the parapet goes up in chunks, and settles down in dust;
When the roly-poly "rum-jar" comes a wobbling thro' the air,
'Til it lands upon the dug-out—and the dug-out isn't there;
When the air is full of dust, and smoke, and scraps of steel and noise,
And you think you're booked for golden crowns and other Heavenly joys;
When your nerves are all a-tremble, and your brain is all a-fret,
It isn't half so hopeless—if you've got a cigarette.

When you're waiting for the whistle and your feet is on the step,
You bluff yourself, it's lot of fun, and all the time you're hep,
To the fact that you may stop one 'fore you've gone a dozen feet,
And you wonder what it feels like, and your thoughts are far from sweet;
Then you think about a little grave, with R. I. P. on top,
And you know you've got to go across—altho you'd like to stop;
When you're backbone's limp as water, and you're bathed in icy sweat,
Why, you'll feel a lot more cheerful if you puff your cigarette.

Then, when you stop a good one, and the stretcher bearers come,
And patch you up with string, and splints, and bandages and gum;
When you think you've got a million wounds and fifty-thousand breaks,
And your body's just a blasted sack packed full of pains and aches;
Then you feel you've reached the finish, and you're sure your numbers up,
And you feel as weak, as Belgian Beer, and helpless as a pup—
But you know that you've not down and out, that' life's worth living yet,
When some old war-wise Red Cross guy slips you a cigarette.

We can do without MacConachies and Bully and Hard Tack,
When Fritz's curtain fire keeps the ration parties back;
We can do without our great-coats, and our socks and shirts and shoes,
We might almost—tho I doubt it—get along without our booze;
We can do without "K. R. & O." and Military law,
We can beat the ancient Israelites at making bricks and straw;
We can without a lot of things and still win out, you bet,
But I'd hate to think of soldiering without a cigarette.

SPARK PLUG SEAT OF MUCH TROUBLE

Electrical Expert Traces Most of Ignition Failures to Unsatisfactory Plugs.

Most of your motor ills, experts say, are due to ignition troubles. Now, an ignition system is a complicated affair and the average man has sense enough to prefer staying away from it, but those who have studied the question claim that ignition failures can usually be explained by unsatisfactory spark plug performance.

Egbert Von Lepel, noted electrical engineer, whose researches have gained him wide recognition and whose invention of the quenched spark gap is widely used in radio, has this to say about spark plug troubles:

"In America spark plug points are generally made of iron. Iron oxidizes easily and the thin cake of carbon which results at these points forms an insulation making it very difficult for the spark to jump across the gap or preventing it altogether. If you locate the trouble, you attempt to remove this insulation, but frequently you do not succeed in doing so entirely. You have continual trouble, you are not getting full power from your engine and you go to your distributor, to your battery, to your coil—in fact, all along the line, trying to locate the trouble. If you finally locate it in your plugs, all you can do is continually spend new money for replacing plugs which, in turn, oxidize."

"Again, most people have the plug points set too far apart. This throws an added strain on the battery because with the wider gap in the insulation your engine is going to stop firing sooner than if your plug points were clean, or at least closer together. The correct setting of plug points after they have been made absolutely clean is from fifteen to twenty thousandths of an inch, depending upon the strength of the coil. A weak coil calls for about fifteen thousandths of an inch and a strong coil twenty thousandths of an inch gap. It really pays to go to a garage and buy a gauge to determine the distance between your points that they may be correctly set."

Mr. Von Lepel has made a prolonged study of ignition. One of his most noteworthy developments is the Lepel Converter, a small electrical device fitting over the spark plug, which absolutely eliminates spark plug troubles. Its results are remarkable. It is not an experiment, but a real electrical achievement which has made good on hundreds of thousands of cars, trucks, tractors, motorcycles and airplanes. In fact, the Lepel Converter has been adopted after thorough tests as municipal equipment by fire departments, police departments, bus lines, etc.

The Converter keeps the spark plug clean. It cannot oxidize. Its immediate effect, however, is to produce a more concentrated and hotter spark. A shower of initial sparks is thrown from the plug points into the combustion chamber instead of a single spark with a wasteful tail or drag of current which is wasted energy at the plug points. This enables you to get a more forceful explosion and results in greatly increased power. Faster pickup, lower idling speeds and increased gasoline mileage are among other advantages claimed.

Lepel Converters are easy to attach and will not harm or disarrange your electrical system. In fact, the makers go so far as to guarantee the results, backing up this guarantee by authorizing dealers to refund the purchase price if the Converter does not act exactly as they have claimed.

Hints Are Given To Automobilists

The other evening after the editor and I got through our bridge game—he won—we came upon this plan of talking to all you folks in motordom. He says: "A column." Now I never did like the columnist, save one, and he died with Tut, but the editor was gracious enough to give me this space. So figurin' I was getting somethin' for nothin', I said, "All right." And here I am, The Gettysburg Motor Club of Adams county, broadcasting in this column each Saturday night. If you'll listen I'll try to tell you something interesting. If you don't, I can't blame you. So as my friend John says, "That's That."

SPEED ABILITY GIVES CAR MORE THAN MERE SPEED

Chrysler Engineer Shows It Is Guarantee of Long Life and Economy of Operation.

The ability of the Chrysler Imperial "80" to maintain high speed for hours at a time has aroused widespread comment among motor car enthusiasts which, in turn, has brought forth from Fred M. Zeder, vice president in charge of engineering of the Chrysler Corporation, a statement concerning the reasons for producing such a high-speed car.

"The Chrysler Imperial '80' is not merely a high-speed car," Mr. Zeder declares. "It was not designed and built because we think owners will want to go speeding about the country at 80 miles an hour, nor because we want to encourage fast driving. But we did design and build it—and its high speed is emphasized—because the built-in ability of an automobile to reach and maintain a very high speed is the best assurance of manufacturing soundness, long life, freedom from replacements and, consequently, economy of operation.

"The ability of the Chrysler Imperial '80' to attain and maintain a speed of 80 miles per hour and more is proof that built into it are all the fundamentals of the highest type of motor car."

Mr. Zeder points out that a car's ability to maintain such high speed means that it will travel from 40 to 60 miles an hour with perfect ease and with but a fraction of the strain and wear upon a car of lesser ability.

"There are times when an owner has good reason for driving 40 to 60 miles an hour," he declares. "Such speed puts a strain on the engine and moving parts for which they were never intended. It racks the car throughout and may cause serious damage to body and mechanism. The repetition of such experiences will materially shorten the life of the average car.

"But in a fast, powerful car, such as the Chrysler Imperial '80', 40 to 60 miles an hour require little more effort than 20 to 30 miles an hour with practically no strain on body or mechanism."

OIL PUMP IN OLDS SHOWS MUCH CARE

15 Separate Operations Needed to Build One of Car's Smallest Units.

The making of the Oldsmobile oil pump driven gear shaft is indicative of the care and precision used in the manufacture of the Oldsmobile engine. This gear shaft is one of the smallest moving, precision-made parts in the car. Despite its diminutive proportions its manufacture requires 15 separate operations in four different departments. It is one and five sixty-fourths of an inch long and its diameter is .67 inch. Bars of tested cold rolled steel are cut into sections long enough to make two finished gear shafts. Each bar is washed and then carefully inspected to make certain there are no flaws in the metal.

The ends are ground to a smooth finish and the bearing surfaces of the shaft carbonized at a temperature of 1700 degrees Fahrenheit. It is then air cooled, which operation requires about 12 hours. The smaller, or neck end, is then formed, this same operation being repeated on the opposite end of the bar.

After another inspection, the bearing ends of the shafts are case hardened to a finished depth of one-sixteenth of an inch, this hardening being done by heating the metal to 1450 degrees Fahrenheit and then quenching it in water. This gives a glass hard finish. Wedge-shaped holes in the ends are then finished with an emery drill and the diameters carefully ground. The bar is then halved, forming two gear shafts and the severed ends ground smooth. A final inspection checks all operations.

The precision with which each operation must be performed is proven by the close limits of the four inspections made of each shaft. The diameter of the smaller end of each gear shaft is correct to one-thousandth of an inch, while the bearing end is held to a limit of one-half of a thousandth of an inch.

A thousandth is one-tenth the thickness of a single sheet of a newspaper; it is from four to eight times thinner than a silk fibre and an average human hair would have to be split many times to attain this minute dimension.

DEALERS SHOW ESSEX STRENGTH

Roof of Car Supports Three Tons of Beams Without Suffering Damage.

In many parts of the country Hudson-Essex dealers are demonstrating in interesting and spectacular ways the unusual strength of the Essex all-steel coach. In one city more than three tons of wooden and steel beams were placed on the roof of the body without in any way affecting it. After this demonstration was over, in fact, the body was remounted on a chassis and is being used as a demonstrator by the distributor.

In another city—located in the cotton belt—a dealer piled two bales of cotton on the roof of the car and drove around the streets. Inasmuch as all Southerners know that a bale of cotton weighs more than 500 pounds, the sight attracted a great deal of attention.

The test of the wooden and steel beams was tried by Walter Zimmerman, of Columbus, Hudson-Essex distributor in the mid-Ohio district. After wooden beams and a platform had been placed on the roof of the car, a set of steel beams was obtained from a nearby sky-scraper under construction. These were piled atop the coach body until the total burden on it was 6850 pounds.

It was shown as an exhibit in the main salesroom. As a part of the proof of strength, salesmen opened and closed doors of the car, showing that there was no strain or distortion on the body.

"Such tests as these," according to Mr. Weikert and Mr. Bigham, Hudson-Essex distributors in Gettysburg and Biglerville, "are evidences of the Hudson-Essex claim that there is no automobile body made, at any price whatever, which is more solid, rigid and strain-proof than the all-steel Hudson and Essex coaches. Not only are they built exceptionally strong and rigid, but also they are so united with the chassis that the whole structure is virtually one unit.

"The whole conception and construction of the bodies are original with Hudson-Essex, and we believe that the results are entirely unique in the automobile field. There has naturally been a strong demand for Essex coaches—so strong that although they are built in the world's largest single body plant, we shall be hard pushed to meet the public demand."

No Engine Fumes in Buick Closed Cars

In the 1927 Buick, the new Vacuum Ventilator pulls engine fumes and gases from the crankcase and ejects them outside the car.

This vital new Buick imprvement does away with noxious odors. It adds greater luxury and pleasure to enclosed car operation.

Close the windows tight, drive the car at any speed, and prove to yourself that the Buick engine never contaminates the air you breathe.

The Vacuum Ventilator serves another very important purpose. With it, crankcase vapors have no opportunity to condense and dilute the oil. Owners of 1927 Buicks are advised to drain their crankcase oil only 4 times during the year.

For luxury, and for economy, own a Buick. Come in today and see what we mean when we say: "The Greatest Buick ever built."

TEN YEARS AGO

Jerusha Dow Album Good Entertainment. Unique in numerous respects, the entertainment conducted by the Woman's League of Pennsylvania College attracted a big crowd to the academy building last evening.

Before the Album was "opened" there was a short musical program which included a solo "An Old Romance," by Miss Reba Miller, a saxophone solo by Miss Schumaker, of Harrisburg, and a piano solo by Mr. Springer, of Harrisburg.

In a short address, Dr. Wentz explained the Album, and Mrs. Charles Huber very entertainingly introduced the pictures in the "book," members of the family of Jerusha Dow, Mrs. Huber represented Mrs. Dow. The "pictures," posed by a number of friends and members of the Woman's League, appeared in a large framework, built to represent an album. As the characters were introduced, they elicited much applause from the audience, due to the quaintness of their attire.

The proceeds from the affair will be devoted to the Y. M. C. A. fund. Each member of the league brought box lunches which were sold for fifty cents each.

CHEV OUTPUT WAS 728,697 AUTOS

Record Is Established During 1926 in Amount of Sales; Over 200,000 More Cars Sold.

Again shattering all production records in the history of three-speed automobiles, the Chevrolet Motor Company, this month, closes its greatest year with an output of 728,697 cars—an increase of more than 40 per cent over the previous record year.

The unparalleled public favor which has attached itself to the Chevrolet car has enabled the company to exceed by 209,637 cars its own record of 1925 when 519,060 units were produced.

Under pressure of the most sensational demand the great organization has ever witnessed, factory wheels turned at a record clip throughout the year building a Chevrolet car every 12 seconds of each working day. Daily production averaged 2,450 cars and reached a high monthly level in September when daily output averaged 3,381 units.

Output for the year far exceeds that of the combined total production in the first ten years of Chevrolet production, 1912 to 1921 included.

"Production records, which Chevrolet has been able to establish very consistently, are especially gratifying primarily because they reflect the increasing public confidence in the organization and its product," said W. S. Knudsen, president Chevrolet Motor Company. "We thoroughly appreciate this tribute to the Chevrolet car and we shall strive to merit the continued high endorsement, which the motoring public has conferred upon our product," he declared.

Chevrolet established a new monthly output mark in September when 81,158 units were produced. This achievement followed several months of record-breaking production. April, May and June with respective production of 71,157, 74,617 and 77,241 each established successive records. July production was restricted somewhat to permit the tooling and other changes necessary to effect several further improvements in Chevrolet models. August production then snapped up to 76,551 units, only 690 fewer cars than were built in June, which stood as Chevrolet's high record month until outdistanced by September.

With production capacity for 1927 greater than ever before, Chevrolet, next month, enters on what promises to be a new record year for the world's largest manufacturer of three-speed transmission cars.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

JUST A BABY!

Just a baby! nothing more,
Millions have been born before,
But this baby strangely seems
To have come with golden dreams,
And a miracle is wrought.
She has changed our every thought.

Just a baby, but the place
Seems to wear a fairer grace,
Gone is all the solemn hue
Rooms and hall and stairway knew.
Nothing here is quite the same
Since the day the baby came.

Laughter has a sweeter tone,
Life itself has richer grown.
She has changed and so have I,
And this great world tramping by,
Busy, heedless as before,
Has been changed for evermore.

Just a baby, nothing more,
Yet we tip-toe 'cross the floor,
Fearful lest the sound we make
Shall her time of slumber break,
And within her tiny hand
Lie the splendors we have planned.

Now beyond our tasks we see
All that some day she may be.
If with pride our faces glow
She it is has made them so.
What is all this boasting for?
Just a baby, nothing more.

Little Jack Rabbit

by David Cory

"Well, now where shall we go?" asked dear Uncle Lucky, turning to his small bunny nephew beside him on the front seat of the Luckymobile. "Let's go down to the river," answered the little rabbit. "Perhaps we'll see the Billy Goat Ferryman." So the obliging old gentleman bunny turned the Luckymobile toward the River Sippi and by and by, not so very far nor so very long, they came to the wharf. And, wasn't it lucky? Right there in the dock was the ferryboat. "Guess we might as well cross over," laughed the old gentleman bunny, and pushing his paw into his pantaloon pocket, he drew out 9 carrot cents, just the right number to carry them across this wide river.

"Hello," shouted one of the deck hands, a big monkey dressed in sailor clothes. "You haven't been this way since Nero was a pup."

"Not as long ago as that, I'm sure," laughed the old gentleman rabbit. "But I'll grant you it has been some time." Just then the bell gave a tinkle. Around splashed the great side wheels and pretty soon the big ferryboat was out in midstream.

"Want a shine?" all of a sudden asked a well-known voice, and there stood Rerry Comb, the little rooster newsboy.

"Thought you sold papers," cried nice Uncle Lucky, stretching out his right foot. "Hurry up, now. Don't want to have only one shoe shined by the time we reach the other side. No, sir. Both shoes must shine as bright as a pumpkin penny in the light."

"I shine shoes in the morning," explained Reddy Comb. "In the afternoon I deliver the papers. Mother Hen has not been well. Although now she's much better since I called in good Dr. Quack, the famous duck doctor."

"I'm sorry Mother Hen has been ill," said the old gentleman rabbit, dropping 25 carrot cents into the little rooster's cap. "That's a good shine; worth the money." Then away he drove over the gang-plank, turning back to wave his paw at Captain Butter, the Billygoat ferryman, in his little pilot house on the roof.

"Now we're safe across the river
In our little Lizzie flivver,
We'll just roll along a mile
For a quiet, happy while," added dear Uncle Lucky, with a smile at his bunny nephew. But hardly were the words out of his mouth when something happened, just like that, quick as the wind that blows off your hat. Yes, sir, right across the narrow, winding woodland path bounded Mr. Buck, the old Deer.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" shouted startled Uncle Lucky, bringing the car to a stop so suddenly that his big gold watch hopped right out of his waistcoat pocket. Guess it would have gone right through the windshield if the chain hadn't held it back.

"Sorry I made you stop in such short order," apologized Mr. Buck. "I never saw you until after I had bounded out of the underbrush."

"Mighty lucky that my brakes are in order," answered the old gentleman rabbit. "Otherwise I'd have run right into you as sure as Monday follows Sunday."

"Any message you'd like me to deliver to Santa Claus?" asked the old Deer, changing the subject, for he saw that dear Uncle Lucky was just a little bit provoked at being obliged to stop so suddenly without any warning.

"What! Are you going to the North Pole?" cried the little rabbit, all excited.

"Of course I am," answered Mr. Buck. "And I'm going to be one of the reindeer to pull Santa's big sleigh the night before Christmas."

"Thought old St. Nick used an automobile these modern days," said the old gentleman rabbit. "Or an airship."

"He did try both, but he says he likes his old sleigh and reindeer best," answered Mr. Buck. "One of his reindeer is so old that he sent for me. So I'm going up North. Am getting an early start so as to be in plenty of time."

"Well, the next time I see you you'll have bells on," laughed funny Uncle Lucky.

"Please be sure not to say hello to me if on Christmas Eve you happen to wake up when we call," laughed Mr. Buck, and in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RANGE OF MIND

THERE is nothing quite so chilling as a little mind—one that plays around in a 25x100 foot lot, let us say.

You can't appreciate old Mother Earth by confining your activities to such space, surely.

I have known many fine thinkers, many educated men and women. I have in mind one who has enough degrees on the tail end of his name to fly a very big kite. But an evening with him is a great bore. I have another friend who never slept on a college campus but whose mind is so fertile and extending that, in a single evening, he fairly wraps it around the entire earth. In fact, he embodies enough real estate in the operation to make the greatest owner of land gasp with envy. His range of mind is through the lanes and by-ways of the entire human race.

Viscount Grey speaks of this sort of man when he tells of the wide range of mind of the late Thomas Burt of England. Other men surpassed him in wealth of illustration, forensic eloquence, and flashy display of voice, but this man got into people's hearts and his influence crept far and wide.

I watched an eagle soar high in the air this summer. Such grace of movement, such a range of space. I wondered what he thought of the big world below. I watched smaller birds try to reach his height in vain. He embodied strength, simplicity of movement. For miles he would float in the air without a stir of his great wings.

It's this way with a remarkable mind. It doesn't display effort, or try to impress people with its wise expanse. It just soars high and all who come within its influence know that it has power.

A fine education may be obtained merely by using your eyes. Then your impressions may be turned over to your mind, and there a process of manufacture may go on until from a single observation, a score or more valuable lessons may be stored, as books of reference are stored in your library.

When you run into a rich personality, you are in contact with a mind that is far and wide in its range.

We Are Ready to enroll you in our new
CHRISTMAS CLUB

1926 Club Just Closed - - - - - - 1927 Club Just Opened

CHRISTMAS Club checks totaling the amount each member had accumulated, plus interest earned, have just been distributed among the members of our 1926 Club. There were more members this year than ever, and the amount each member received was in most cases greater.

Our Christmas Club members come in smiling and cheerful. They have reasons to. They can go out with ready money in their pockets—Enough to buy handsome gifts for everyone they want to remember and have some left over for other purposes. They don't have to buy where they happen to have charge accounts—but can have the pleasure of buying where they will—pay cash—and have no "first of the year bills."

My, what a wonderful thing is the Christmas Club. It has gladdened the hearts of millions and made giving a pleasure instead of a burden.

We are proud to be the institution that is selected by so many people of this city to hold their Christmas funds for them and return the entire amount to them just before Holiday Shopping Time.

We are proud to announce that our 1927 Club is now open and ready to take as members, every man, woman, and child in town. Of course all old members will join our new Club, but we want a lot of new ones. We want YOU to become a member.

All you have to do is make a small opening payment and then add a small amount each week. Next December you get a Big Check for all you have paid in, plus interest. Look at the Clubs listed below, pick out the one you want to join. Come in and lets us enroll you.
